Visit the Territory Wildlife Park It's 1 km further west along the Cox Peninsula Road.

Berry Springs Nature Park is a great location close to Darwin where you can enjoy a refreshing swim and a barbeque. The perfect place to unwind after a day at the Territory Wildlife Park.

The Park protects a large part of the Berry Creek catchment. Berry Creek starts from a number of springs, forms a small creek, then reaches Darwin Harbour through a mangrove lined estuary.

If you swim with goggles you can see many small native fish and other aquatic life that live in the clear pools.

Access (see map)

Turn west off the Stuart Highway about 47 km south of Darwin. The Park is 10 km along the Cox Peninsula Road.

When to Visit

The Park is open from 8.00 am to 6.30 pm daily. Group functions require a permit.

If you are interested in plants, visit the Park during March and April when many of the native plants are in flower and the grasses are still green.

What to See and Do

▲ Picnicking - enjoy the shady picnic areas with tables and barbecues. Wood is provided.

Swimming - The cool clear water is refreshing in the shady pools along Berry Creek. There are steps for easy access. Bring your mask and snorkel to
